

Internship Opportunity with the National Center for Montessori in the Public Sector

The National Center for Montessori in the Public Sector is a national nonprofit supporting public Montessori schools. From our website:

Our mission is to help public schools deliver high-quality, personalized education through Montessori.

NCMPS grows and sustains Montessori in the public sector with a focus on equity and access. More and better public Montessori schools will give children hit hardest by racism, poverty, and structural inequality access to this transformational model.

NCMPS is seeking interns to help improve our understanding of public and subsidized Montessori programs serving indigenous, Black, and other minoritized and underserved demographics in the U.S.

NCMPS manages the Montessori Census, a national online database of public and private Montessori schools. Participation in the Census is voluntary, and while we believe it represents the best available information on the extent of publicly funded and low-cost or no-cost Montessori programs, we know our understanding of the demographics of children and families served is incomplete.

Interns would work over the summer months to gather additional information for the Census through research and direct outreach, bringing programs into the public Montessori network and connecting them with resources and services. This work could include supporting and/or authoring articles for publication in MontessoriPublic, our print and digital news and advocacy platform.

We are especially interested in interns who members of BIPOC communities, but the internship opportunity is open to all applicants.

Interested students can send a letter of application and a resume to David Ayer, Communications Director, at david.ayer@public-montessori.org. This internship is unpaid, but participants may be eligible for funding from their home institution. Dates of work are flexible.
